Histories and Tales of past Times, with Morals and Cuts, writ purposely for the innocent Entertainment of Children, and to cause in them a Thirst after Virtue, whose weak Understandings are too apt to be prepossess'd in Favour of Vice; recommended by the ingenious Perault as a very proper Inducement to bring them to the right Use of Reading, which he was so well assured of, that he wrote the Morals himself.

1622 Mother Goose's Stories of past Times, writ purposely for the innocent Entertainment of Children, and yet are so contrived by the Author, that not only Children, but those of Maturity have found in them uncommon Pleasure and Delight: As an Instance of which, the famous Perault was so taken with them, that he made the Morals to them himself, as knowing they tended to the Incouragement of Virtue and the Depression of Vice; the former of which is ever Rewarded in them, and the latter ever Punished.

N. B. This Book has met with such uncommon Encouragement in the French Tongue, that Ten Thousand could hardly satisfy the call there has been for them, nor has the English Book-seller Reason to complain, the Second Edition being almost Sold.
